Agenda

Ad 1) Approval of agenda

Approved.

The study board welcomed the new student representatives from the MSc in Immunology and Inflammation: Tiana Stanisic, Gaja Kopal, and Rebecca Michelle Schulz.

Ad 2) Approval of minutes from last meeting (14 April)

Approved.

Ad 3) Election of vice chairperson (representation area: Immunology)

Tiana Stanisic was elected.

Ad 4) Messages by heads of studiesImmunology:

Human biology:

Ad 5) Messages by students

As all the current members in the exemption and credit transfer committee are graduating during the summer, it was noted to recruit new members.

Gaja Kobal (Immunology) and Zakarias (Human Biology) will be new members in the committee. The students from Neuroscience will discuss this further and get back to case handler Majbritt Petersen and mailbox for programme coordinators: uddannelseskoordinering@sund.ku.dk, when they have agreed who will be a member.

Ad 6) Classification of courses fall 2022 in MSc Immunology and Inflammation

Please see overview of categorizations below the minutes.

Ad 7) Classification of courses fall 2022 MSc in Human Biology

Please see overview of categorizations below the minutes.

Ad 8) Presentation and orientation of the new study curriculum for the Immunology and Inflammation study programme

Head of studies, Anders Woetmann, presented the ideas for the new study curriculum for the MSc in Immunology and Inflammation, which will start from September 2024.

A new course 'Computational Immunology' will be implemented in the first semester. The study board was introduced to the course description.

The course will have an oral examination with assessment form passed/not passed. The students will have a one week assignment prior to the oral examination.

Furthermore, elements from the new course (bioinformatics) will be implemented in some of the other existing courses, so the students will use the knowledge continuously throughout the programme.

The course in Laboratory Animal Science will be an elective course instead of compulsory.

The course 'Allergy, Autoimmunity and Inflammation' will be reduced from 15 ECTS to 7,5 ECTS.

The study board discussed the presentation and supported the ideas for the new study curriculum.

The changes will be finally approved in the study board in September and November 2023.

Ad 9) Miscellaneous

It was pointed out that communication regarding the Meet n' Greet should be clearer and reach out to all students across the three programmes. A lot of the students in the Immunology programme missed the information the last time it was carried out.

The study board discussed the procedure for dispensation for exam withdrawal. The students can apply for dispensation up until the day before the exam: <https://kUNET.ku.dk/study/humanbiology-ma/Pages/Topic.aspx?topic=Exam%20withdrawal&topicId=d1bb45d5-e2e9-4f74-ac59-23a60f32ccf7#d1bb45d5-e2e9-4f74-ac59-23a60f32ccf7>.

It was noted that the examiner should be informed if the student applies for dispensation, as the deadline is very late and because it can take up until 10 workdays before the dispensation will be answered. It was suggested to inform the students about this procedure on Absalon.

Iggi Juhl Petersen mentioned that AUS is aware of the current procedure and deadline for dispensation and the inconvenience it may cause.
